

Dakota Scott-Digout

About Dakota

Dakota Scott-Digout playing at the Trinity United Church in Shelburne

Dakota Scott-Digout is a pianist whose primary focus is a classical repertoire, playing compositions from artists such as Beethoven, Chopin, and Mozart to name a few. He has experimented with jazz and popular genres as well.

Dakota started playing the piano at age six when his mother enrolled him in lessons, and has continued to pursue them. Dakota's mother is musically gifted and has encouraged him to persist with piano in times of doubt.

He has played in numerous local festivals and fundraisers including the Four Hands Festival and Not Just Desserts. Dakota considers scoring the highest in Nova Scotia on a level 9 piano exam at Mount Allison to be his greatest achievement thus far.

Dakota is currently enrolled in a Bachelors of Music program at Mount Allison University.
