Dan Peacock is a passionate photographer and woodworker. After moving to Shelburne County in 1999, Dan realized that he could combine his passions, photography and woodworking, into one. With the help of Dan Fry, Dan started making cedar strip canoes and paddles. With the canoes he spent more and more time on the water exploring Shelburne County always with a camera in hand. Being able to share images of his travels gives him great satisfaction.

Over the years he has developed a real love for Shelburne County and has set a goal of paddling every lake in the county (122 in total). He is currently at the half way point and has plans for many more great adventures.

Dan has recently opened up a new photography studio & canoe shop at his home located at 336 Ohio Rd, Shelburne.
